Tasting Notes

It's called Black because in its intense and impenetrable colour you can already find a hint of the delicious aromas that await you. Notes of blackberries and prunes that go well with spicy and toasted sensations of liquorice and coffee. Each sip stands out for its immediate freshness, which recalls ripe fruit, followed by a spicy and tasty trail, with surprising balsamic and floral hints of myrtle, mint and violets. A game of flavours that enchants the palate with a lingering mouthfeel, well balanced between strength and pleasantness.

Best Food Pairings

Easy to taste, easy to pair with many different foods, and highly enjoyable with ethnic recipes. Thanks to its harmonic profile, it goes well with roasted white and red meats, with a side dish of grilled vegetables, gourmet burgers with Cheddar, avocado and crunchy bacon, pulled pork with red onion chutney, rich lasagna with mushrooms, chicken tikka masala, beef meatballs with tomato sauce, stuffed mushrooms, potato and cheese flan with rosemary, moussaka, picanha with chimichurri sauce. Lots of choices to suit all tastes and desires.
